

The schooner Rosano reports June 23, 1885, in lat. 29 degrees 14' N., long. 133 degrees 35' W., two heavy shock of submarine earthquakes about one minute apart, causing the vessel to tremble violently. The sky was overcast and the sea smooth.